Dear Stan,

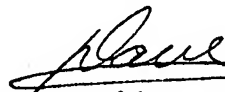

What a splendid contribution you made to Principia by your visit here and talk last week. I have had repeated comments and expressions of gratitude from students, faculty and staff alike who greatly appreciated both your message and the wonderfully direct, clear and balanced way in which you gave it. Your visit was truly a high point of the year for Principia, and we are most grateful. I am particularly aware of the problems involved for you in fitting such a trip into your demanding schedule, not to mention the family difficulties you faced over the weekend.

We had dinner with George and Jane and some other friends on our visit to San Francisco. George was delighted to know that you had been at Principia, and I was able to tell him in some detail about your talk. He and Jane are fine.

Helen and I enjoyed having you and Pat in our home. A warm welcome awaits you whenever you want to try out your tennis skills against some of our enthusiasts here and have the Hutchinson House suite with its river view to retire to for resting up between matches.

Thanks again, Stan, and warmest of good wishes to you and Pat, in which Helen joins.

Cordially,

David K. Andrews
President
